

NE ASD Network Metro and Central Regional Training

Creating Comprehensive Programming for Students with ASD: Using the Ziggurat Framework and Comprehensive Autism Planning System 4 Part Series

Dates: January 11, January 18, February 8, & February 15, 2022

Time: 3:30 p.m.- 4:30 p.m.

Location: Zoom

Fee: none

Presenters: Jamie Lewis, MSOTR/L, Central Region ASD Coordinator, Mikki Bohling, SLP-CCC, Teri McGill, Metro Region ASD Coordinator & Ali Sweitzer, Metro Region Behavior Specialist

Audience: This training is appropriate for teams working with students of all ages and could include resource teachers, SLPs, OTs, PTs, counselors, school psychologists, general education teachers, parents and administrators.

Description: ASD requires interventions throughout the lifespan. The Ziggurat Model offers a step-by-step framework for organizing your knowledge of ASD and intervention options into a comprehensive plan into which we can plug in intervention strategies. This model emphasizes evidence-based practices, proactive strategies, ongoing assessment and promotes team collaboration. The CAPS helps teams create an intentional plan on how to implement interventions across the day. The time in between the training sessions will allow participants to implement what they are learning to have a direct impact on their teamwork towards improving programming for their student(s).
